MORE INFO

Features

- Macabeu B is a productive, vigorous variety which grows erect and must be short-pruned.
- It is sensitive to wind damage.
- Planting in cool and humid areas along with too dry soil, causing the variety to be subject to drying out and early leaf drop, should be avoided.
- Macabeu B is rather sensitive to mites, grey rot and bacterial necrosis.

Technological potential

- The grape clusters are very large and the berries moderate to large size.
- Depending on growing conditions, Macabeu B can be used to produce sparkling or natural sweet white wine.
- The dry white and sparkling wine are light, pleasant but oftentimes lack acidity and a bit of finesse.
- The aromas (sometimes with notes of fennel) are likewise not very intense.
